Description

Mahogany 18th Century Card Table, Games Table

A mid-18th century George II mahogany fold over card or games table. When not in use this high-quality piece of furniture serves as a console table or hall table. The shaped top folds open, supported by a single gate leg, to reveal a green baize playing surface, ideal for evening card games. The table with a single oak lined frieze drawer to the front supported on four turned legs terminating in a pad foot, fronts legs with carved shields to the knees. The baize has been replaced, top with four corner candle/drinks roundels with a further four counter wells or 'guinea wells' within the playing surface. The back of the games table is also veneered, this is a sign of exceptional quality.

A beautiful functional authentic piece of furniture with great patina.

Size shown is when table top is closed, playing surface when opened measures 73cm by 76cm.

The cards shown are for display purposes and are NOT included in the price.
