Description

Slazengers Tin Advertising Sign 'The Corbally' Mallet.

This is a rare Slazengers advertising sign for their croquet mallet called 'The Corbally' Mallet. It had an unparalleled record as stated on the sign, The Open Championship, The Champion Cup, The Association Gold Medal, The Eastbourne Gold Cup, all won in the same year. The mallet was specially designed by Mr. Cyril Corbally, the Open Croquet Champion.

In Slazengers 1916 catalogue they say of the Mallet:-

The "Corbally" mallet as used by the champions.

A record for one year:- The Open Championship, The ladies Championship, The Championship Cup, The Association Gold Medal & numerous other important events were won with The "Corbally" Mallet.

This mallet was specially designed by Mr. Cyril Corbally, the Open Croquet Champion. Mr. Corbally writes:- "I think the mallet very suitable for those who wish to play the front style. Its weight and balance give sufficient power in shooting without lessening its accuracy in approaching, and the grooved handle overcomes to a great degree the tendency of all Mallets to twist in the player's hand."

Fitted with heads of Lignum Vitae or Boxwood - Price 11/- each.

If brass, or aluminium bands, which are recommended to minimise chances of wood splitting, are fitted, there will be an extra charge of 4/6.
